Ogden, Sept. 29.-The Democratic county convention, which met today and nominated the above ticket, was and nominated the above ticket, was one of the largest and most energetic gatherings in the history of the county. The nominations were made with due deliberation. The rules provided that every nomination should be by ballot, and consequently there was no rall-roading of the nominations.

The platform reaffirmed the state and national history and provised.

and national platforms and promised an ecnomical administration of county affairs. There was also a plank favor-ing the encouragement of legislation in favor of irrigation and another plank for the enforcement of direct legisla-tion, provided the constitutional amend-ment looking toward the establishment tion, provided the constitutional amendment looking toward the establishment of the same shall be carried. In every case the defeated candidates or their most ardent supporters moved to make the nomination of the successful candidate unanimous, and promised him hearty support.

Morning Session.

Chairman Hamer called the convention to order and named Frank J. Can-non as temporary chairman and E. S. Rolapp temporary secretary. Mr. Can-non was greeted with great applause and made an address that was received all through with cheers as the speaker contrasted the policies of the Republi-can and Democratic parties. The com-mittee on credentials was composed of the chairman of each delegation and the chairman of each delegation and the chairman of each delegation and the committee on permanent organization and order of business was made up of one member from each delegation. The chair appointed a committee on resolutions as follows:

N. L. Maginnis, Thomas D. Dee, E. A. Littlefield, Mrs. R. T. Hilliard, Mrs. Sarah West, Joseph Bidwell, Peter Geertson, M. A. King. Recess was then taken till 1:30.

Afternoon Session.

The committee on credentials reported every precinct represented and but one contest, that from the Second ward of Ogden, from which two sets of credentials were presented. After hearing both sides the committee unanimously decided to seat the delegates elected at the Second ward amusement. elected at the Second ward amusement

Mrs. Hilliard proposed an amendment pledging all officers to carry out the constitutional amendment providing for direct legislation if the amendment shall carry. This was carried. Mr. Browning offered a verbal amendment providing that all legislative nominees caucus on United States senator providing they could not elect one in the other manner. Mr. Browning withdrew the mountain after it was explained that the reaffirmation of the state platform covered the point.

Then came the no tion for state senator.

Then came the no thou for state senator.

Thomas D. Dee named Hon, L. W. Shurtliff and Mr. Ledwidge moved that the rules be suspended and the nomination go by acclamation.

Then came John Seaman of Pleasant View with a protest and a nomination up his sleeve.

Mr. Seaman spoke vigorously and indirectly criticised Mr. Shurtliff for not assisting to elect a Democratic United States senator at the last session of the legislature. He wanted a Democrat "above suspicion" and named a business man, a Scotchman and a Democrat, W. W. Browning. There was considerable applause throughout Mr. Seaman's remarks. Several seconding man's remarks. Several seconding speeches were made. Then the ballot man's remarks.

night with a rousing meeting which was addressed by A. J. Webber, David Evans and Professor N. T. Porter. The opera house was well filled with people when Chairman Hansen called the meeting to order and introduced Professor Porter as the first speaker.

Mr. Porter made an able talk on educational lines, setting forth his views as to the needs of the public schools.

Mr. Webber made a very able political argument, covering most of the issues of the campaign. He read extracts from speeches made by Governor Wells in which the governor took the same position on the question of bimetallism and imperialism as the Democrats advocate today. The convention was again manifest-ng its approval and the young man yielded. The motion was put and the shout of acclamation was heard blocks Thomas E. Ballantyne and Gilbert R. Belnap. The latter was victorious with a vote of 131 to 115. a vote of 131 to 115.

For assessor there were four aspirants, and it took five ballots to decide the contest. The candidates were Moroni Brown, John F. Rawson, John Seaman and Fred Shields. Brown and Shields took the lead, but Seaman forged to the front and on the last ballot received 139 to 111 for Shields, notwithstanding the fact that Brown, the next highest candidate had withdrawn

MRS. GOUGER AT EVANSTON. Has a Good Audience at the Wyoming Town.

(Special to The Herald.) Gougar of Indiana, spoke here last night to a good audience. In marked contrast to the great blare of the brass band, the blowing of the whistles and the efforts of the Union Pacific Railroad company to show its bias in favor of the Republican ticket by turning out the shop force to hear Roosevelt on last Saturday, Mrs. Gougar came almost unheralded, and the results of the two meetings were just as diametrically opposite.

After the Roosevelt meeting, nothing but disgust appeared on the countenances of even the Republican managers. On the other hand, this morning on the streets of Evanston nothing but praise unstinted is heard concerning the speech of Mrs. Gougar last night.
